Related subject: Pateley Bridge and Nidderdale

The population geography of the Dales follows the River Valleys. Nidderdale is no exception. Everything and every one follows the river valleys. The Nidd Valley has nothing in common with Wharfedale.

Residents of Nidderdale are a completely separate tribe to any of the other dales valleys as are they in their turn are in the same geographical and population position.

Nidderdale Wards in these upland valleys must follow the Nidd Valley. Watershed to Watershed North and South and downstream Eastwards towards Knaresborough to build up the necessary population numbers. All the population looks, moves and identifies up and down the river valleys and regards the watersheds as tribal boundaries.
