Whilst the changes to parish boundaries make a certain amount of sense, there seems to be a missed opportunity where expansion against the authority boundary is putting pressure on services provided by Milton Keynes and causing confusion over who the appropriate authority is.

Areas such as Newton Leys where Lansbury Road, Dickens Lane, Coleman Street are over the border in Buckinghamshire cause confusion. Surely this is an opportunity to resolve historic border issues and improve the lives of residents. Another example is Aspley Hill in Woburn Sands, where one side of the road is in Milton Keynes and the other side is in Central Bedfordshire.
