Related subject: Smethwick

All of the proposals where the public have asked for change have been disregarded as you know better. The public are the people who are living in these areas. St.Paul's ward name makes no sense. I believe Smethwick South and North would suffice much better. Otherwise people believe St.Pauls is just based on the actual road it is named after. Soho and Victoria also makes no sense to the public. It's also named after a park and I don't understand why Soho has been used. It should be known as Capehill ward as that is what it is known to the public. I've never been asked in 37 years where Soho and Victoria area is nor have I ever been asked where St Paul's is. If I was asked where Smethwick South/North ward or Capehill Ward is I would be able to identify this easier as well as the majority of the public. It seems no matter what suggestions are put forward they are ignored as people sitting at a boardroom table know the areas better than the people who actually live there.
