The ward is huge and could do with being split up a bit. To my mind, the upper part of Coombe Dingle/Sea Mills has little in common with places like Avonmouth and LW. Geographically it would make sense to have at least part of Shirehampton in the ward, if just the titular areas are too small. I've leafleted across Bristol for elections in the past, and the sheer size of A&LW compared to others is notable. I think it would be hard for a councillor to accurately represent all its disparate areas.
