The Richmond and Woodhouse boundaries make little sense. Part of the Richmond ward is actually in Handsworth and is actually a well established part of the Handsworth community, but the voting boundary classes them as Richmond. This is the bramley estate and parsley hay estate. Handsworth also gets classed as Woodhouse but cannot be further from the truth. These are two completely separate villages that have simply been joined together for voting purposes. Handsworth has its own identify and would be much more appropriate to include bramley and parsley hay estates as an individual ward after removing them from Richmond Ward. This makes sense culturally and socially, as these groups share shops, healthcare services, schools and community spaces.
