I live near the corner of Granville Road and City Road and do not own a car, so my regular routines involve a mix of walking nearby, walking to the City Centre, taking public transportation within Sheffield, and taking the train elsewhere. I work in another city, so I walk to Sheffield rail station to take the train on days I'm in the office, and I work from home the rest of the time. There are no supermarkets nearby so I take the bus and/or tram to do my weekly shopping. My nearest corner shop and news agent is Thoroughgoods and I walk there several times per week. I am a regular library user, and I use Park Library several times per month. My nearest pub and cafe are in Park Hill, so I walk to Park Hill about as often. I am registered at the Dovercourt Surgery and regularly use Skye Pharmacy to pick up prescriptions. I identify strongly as someone who has made their home in Sheffield, and within Sheffield as someone who lives between the Manor and the former Castle.
